PRACTICE AREAS

ELDER LAW

Elder Law has become increasingly important to our aging population. It addresses the concerns of the elderly, their family members and life partners should a person become disabled or face catastrophic medical expenses. It includes planning and making applications for Medicaid benefits to cover the cost of long-term medical care. It also includes guardianships for those persons no longer able to make their own personal needs or property management decisions. An elder law attorney helps elderly clients and their families deal with the legal issues involved in growing older. The attorneys at Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP can develop a comprehensive plan to protect your rights and assets, represent you in applying for Medicaid benefits and in proceedings for the appointment of a guardian.

PLANNING FOR PERSONS WITH SPECIAL NEEDS

Years ago, people did not provide an inheritance for their disabled children or other relatives for fear that these disabled persons would lose their entitlement to government benefit programs until the inheritance was depleted. Fortunately, times have changed and a disabled person may now be the beneficiary of a supplemental needs trust and still be eligible to receive government benefits to pay for the cost of their medical care. This allows the disabled person to use the inheritance for expenditures that will enhance the quality of his or her life while receiving government benefits to pay for medical care. Similarly, a disabled person may protect his or her own assets by having them placed into a special needs trust. Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP can develop a plan to permit disabled persons to spend their assets in a manner that will enhance the quality of their life (e.g., vacations, entertainment and purchase of electronics) while receiving government benefits to pay for medical care.

ESTATE PLANNING

It may be unpleasant to think about how your family would deal with your affairs and finances after you pass away, but it is essential to do so. Estate planning allows you to impact the future by directing how you would like your property and assets distributed upon your death. Without proper planning, your estate could go to people who you did not choose and you may lose many tax savings opportunities. Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP will work with you to create a plan that will assure that your assets are distributed to the people and in the manner that you choose, while minimizing taxes.

PRACTICE AREAS

BUSINESS SUCCESSION

Business owners have special considerations when planning for their futures, including concerns like: Who will manage the business in the event of my death or incapacity? How can I ensure that my family will be supported by business income after retirement? With concentrations in elder law and estate planning, as well as business law, Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP is experienced in working with its business clients to develop business succession plans to protect their families and businesses.

PROBATE AND ESTATE ADMINISTRATION

When a loved one dies, in addition to questions regarding funeral and burial arrangements, a grieving survivor is often overwhelmed by the paperwork involved in transferring the assets to the survivor or other persons to whom the decedent chose to leave his or her property. Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP handles simple and complex administrations and will work to settle an estate expeditiously to help minimize the financial burden of survivors.

ESTATE LITIGATION

Although most estates are processed by the Surrogate's Court without opposition and the estate assets are properly distributed according to either the decedent's will or interstate law, a challenge to the provisions of a will or to the proper accounting of estate assets is a matter which requires effective legal representation. Of all forms of litigation, will contests, estate asset recovery proceedings and fiduciary accounting proceedings test the knowledge and skill of the lawyer and Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP is well versed in the substantive law and evidentiary rules associated with this specialized area of practice. The firm has represented at various times the "petitioner" who seeks to admit the will to probate or the "objectant" who claims some entitlement to all or a portion of the estate assets. Due to the professional background of its attorneys who have been featured speakers in continuing legal education programs in this area of practice, Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP is uniquely situated to deal with the complex issues associated with this type of litigation.

PERSONAL INJURY/WRONGFUL DEATH

When you or a loved one suffers serious physical injury due to the negligence of another person, your thoughts are immediately focused on proper medical care and treatment or, in the event of a death, the overwhelming grief. Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP has the knowledge and experience to advise you concerning your legal rights and pursue your personal injury or wrongful death claim for monetary damages against the responsible party. Your case is given individualized attention by our firm's trial attorney, Rick Haley, who will personally handle every aspect of your case in an effort to maximize the value of your claim through trial or settlement.

BUSINESS LAW

From the initial start-up to dissolution or sale of the company, it is important that business owners have legal counsel. One of the first steps in starting a business is to determine what type of business structure is best for the business and the interests of the entrepreneur. Once a business is formed and begins operating, business owners face legal issues and concerns on a daily basis. Among the issues for which Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP provides legal counsel to business owners are:

It has never been more important to have an experienced real estate attorney help guide you through the process. Haley Weinblatt & Calcagni, LLP has over fifteen years of experience in handling commercial and residential real estate transactions.

CRIMINAL LAW

Everyone makes mistakes. Sometimes our mistakes result in criminal prosecutions. At times, we may have been wrongly accused or the prosecution does not have enough evidence to convict.
